

Why You Should Always Book With a Travel Professional

When it comes to planning a vacation, you don't have to do it alone. Life is more demanding than ever, and your vacation time is even more valuable. A travel professional can help you achieve the getaway you desire with the support you need.

Here are 8 reasons why you should always book with a travel professional!

1. We Take The Work Out of Your Hands

When you enlist a travel professional in your vacation planning, prepare to be heard, advised, and understood. We are not only a search engine or anonymous voice behind a phone call. We do the work of helping you select destinations, accommodations, and modes of transportation so all you have to do is pack... and go!

2. We Add A Human Element

Travel professionals add a human element to the entire process, treating you as a person and not a number. We are invested in their client's happiness and satisfaction, wanting to make sure each and every trip you book with us is packed full of positive, lifelong memories. We are with you before, during, and after the trip, truly becoming a friend through it all.

3. We Weather The Storms... Literally

No one is able to control the weather, not even travel professionals, but travel professionals can adjust your plans to whatever natural disasters and system failures occur near or on the dates of your trip. Travel professionals have access and knowledge to help speed up your re-accommodation and act as your advocate when problems arise. We can help you change travel dates or change destinations completely, as well as hold cruise and air options for you before booking a non-refundable reservation. No one wants to sit on hold with an airline or tour operator for hours, so let a travel professional take on the job!

4. We Tackle The BIG Groups

Trips are more complicated than ever, especially when multigenerational vacations are in such high demand. Maybe grandparents want to take their kids and grandkids on a vacation, or a newly-engaged couple wants to have a destination wedding and invite their entire family. Planning travel with a large group of people of varying ages is challenging, so partnering with a travel professional to alleviate some of the stress is the smart choice!

5. We Keep Up With The Times

Travel professionals don't just sell a destination; we do research and discover the place we offer. It takes hard work to understand the dynamics of every destination and travel professionals are on the ground, experiencing those dynamics to relay relevant information back to you. Has the Caribbean recovered from the last hurricane? Can Americans travel to Cuba? Has the smoke cleared in Napa? Don't do the research alone when a travel professional can help you!

6. We Save You Time & Stress

Sitting back and browsing destinations online, in magazines, and in media is leisurely and fun, but actually planning a trip to one of those destinations can turn out stressful. Travel professionals travel for work, looking at everything from the size of resort rooms and cruise ships to the dining options that are available. We know the hidden gems because we have searched them out and have given previous clientele the chance to search for them, too. Our knowledge of those destinations you browse not only saves you valuable time but the stress of booking on your own!

7. We Deliver More Value

People often think using a travel professional to book trips will cost extra, when in fact using one can save you money and snag inside access and bonuses during your vacation. Many times people don't realize the number of amenities and discounts available when booking as a group and only possible with a travel professional. Even if your travel agent charges a fee for their services, the value you receive from your trip will be bigger than what you paid!

8. We Give You Assurance

It's completely normal to be an anxious traveler, especially with unpredictable advisories and events near your destination. Airline issues, wildfires, State Department warnings, COVID-19... it is impossible to navigate all the complexities that could impact travel on your own. Travel professionals recognize this and can soothe those anxieties, reassuring you of where to go and where not to go. Our responsibility is to assist our clients in making the best possible choices, and our capabilities are instrumental in deciphering what destinations are accessible to you.

Best in Industry
5 Star Rated

